Verbal evaluation of the work:

A. Gorelik's bachelor thesis has a standard division into theoretical and practical part. The practical part includes an analytical and design part.

The work is written carefully, but some analyzes are too superficial - McDonald stock for example. A more significant formal drawback is the use of a „decimal comma“ instead of a decimal point. The comma is used in multi-digit numbers to separate thousands from hundreds, the so-called thousands separator.

Despite the above comments, I rate the bachelor's thesis as very good.

The bachelor's thesis I recommend to the defence and propose the evaluation: Very Good (B)
