❖ Summary

Project administration requires a range of procedures, models, tools and technology that a project manager uses to execute the product/service during the project management period. The questionnaires mentioned above assist me in my research about the selection of appropriate project management strategies and their combinations. I presented the above questions to project managers, project supporters, and team members in order to determine the most effective factors (i.e. time, cost, efficiency, and size) for determining the right methodology.

How happy are you in the approach the project manager has taken to handle the following project management components (create, control, interact, schedule and maintain)? (Possible answers: Strong agreement, agreement, disagreement, disagreement strongly).
