Other comments or suggestions:

The author created a thorough business plan outline with most of the necessary components for market analyses. There is a quality layout for those seeking to start a company. However, the thesis seems to be entirely theoretical, as little practical work was added. Other than a minor paragraph to briefly highlight a Prague-based company, Prague was a touch-and-go topic at the very beginning of the Literature Review. It was not developed in the Practical portion.

Questions for thesis defence:

For the market analysis, why not add a form of PESTLE to give a well-rounded scope to the demographics?

Which business would be the most likely to thrive in Prague's marketplace?
