

Tatia Kuljanishvili

🎓 Education

Ph.D. student, Czech University of Life Sciences in Prague, Prague

October 2017

Ph.D topic: The spread and impact of non-native aquatic organisms focusing on Ponto-Caspian Region

Master of Science (MSc), Ilia state University, Tbilisi

October 2014 — October 2016

Master topic: Diversity of fish, population structure and dynamics in the Paravani and Sagamo lake

Bachelor, Ilia state University, Tbilisi

October 2022 — October 2014

🏠 Internships

Leibniz-Institute of Freshwater Ecology and Inland Fisheries, Berlin

October 2018 — November 2018

Working topic: Fish species of South Caucasus under the supervision of Dr. Jorg Freyhof.

Institute of Zoology at Ilia State University, Tbilisi

April 2015 — September 2017

Topic: Freshwater fish diversity and dynamics in Javakheti Upland lakes (the South Caucasus)

Georgian National Environment Agency, Tbilisi

December 2014 — February 2015

Department of Environment pollution and monitoring, at Laboratory of Atmospheric air, Water and Soil Analysis (3 month)

🏛️ Society Member

European Ichthyological Society

January 2019

Member and supporting staff. Handling members (helping members register, providing information and confirmations), running the webpage and social media of the society, helping at the congress.

Details

Faculty of Agrobiology, Food, and Natural Resources

Prague, Dept. of Zoology and Fisheries

Czech Republic

kuljanishvili.tatia@gmail.com

Links

Google Scholar

ResearchGate