Other comments or suggestions:

The student, Mr. Swetansh Katar, chose a topical topic.

„Impact of population growth on the economy of India (Uttar Pradesh state – focus on selected economic sectors). "

Obtaining realistic data from this area has been difficult, especially since some official government sources about data related to the thesis topic are sometimes different from reality.

The student prepared his master's thesis according to the regulations, models, and manuals issued by FEM CZU.

The student cooperated very well with the supervisor on bachelor's work. The students' activities were on a perfect level, and the timetable for the master's thesis was fulfilled well.

I positively evaluated the students' approach during the elaboration of the master's thesis and the active cooperation with the supervisor, experts from the Czech Republic, and especially cooperation with the experts from the home country during primary data collection.

Based on the collection of data (from questionnaires), treatment, and appraisal of data, the student created the results and deliverables of the study. The primary role in data processing is built on the Multiple regression model.

The student used a very appropriate tabular and graphic form of the data collection overview and the final graphic form of the research results.

An overview of the research outputs of the thesis is presented in the form of SWOT analyses in the final chapters.

These outputs fully correspond with the objectives and describe the methodologies the student used in the thesis.

The thesis has its own informative ability and importance. From the formal point of view, the thesis has the proper structure required for this thesis category.

The thesis written by Mr. Swetansh Katar complies with all formal requirements, and I recommend it for defense in front of the faculty state committee.

My final assessment as thesis supervisor is "Excellent."
